Problems That Occur When

Selecting The Wrong Contractor

Remodeling projects have tight deadlines and budgets. A contractor without a proven track record can easily blow both.

There are even worse scenarios when things take a turn for the worse.

For example:

This is just one mistake, among the millions of projects and billions of dollars wasted each year on unfit contractors.

Have you identified the pattern yet?

I hope so.

An unlicensed, uninsured contractor can expose you to risks. This is especially true if an accident occurs on your job.

A bad contractor can cause poor finishes and structural issues. They may install things that fail. These problems may need costly repairs.

If you hire the wrong person for the job, most of the time, you end up paying for it in either time, money, or effort.

Do your best to avoid any of these issues that millions of Americans have experienced.

So... what SHOULD you be doing?

You should be thoroughly researching the contractor you choose for your home improvement project.

Ultimately, protecting your investment and peace of mind.

Starting today, you will always check a contractor carefully before choosing one.

Unless you hate money, safety, and time. In which case you should always choose at random.

Yes, FREE!

Confused?

Let me give you some tips on how to find the perfect contractor for your home.

Don't worry.

I'm here to help.

Here are some tips:

1) Start by asking friends, family, or neighbors. Word-of-mouth referrals often lead to finding trustworthy contractors with a solid reputation.

2) Make sure the contractor is licensed and insured. A valid license indicates they meet the necessary qualifications and local regulations. Insurance protects you from liability in case of accidents during the project.

3) Inspect their website and social media for credibility. Check out their reviews while you're there. This is very important.

4) Always get at least three estimates. Comparing many bids allows you to understand pricing and project scope. (Avoid the lowest bid—it may mean the contractor is cutting corners.)

5) In-person meetings let you gauge the contractor's style and professionalism. It's vital to be comfortable with the contractor. They must understand your needs and vision for the project. ESPECIALLY if the project is in your home.

6) Once you've chosen a contractor, ensure all project details are in a written contract. It should include timelines, costs, the scope of work, and the payment schedule. Avoid contractors who demand full payment upfront. This is extremely sketchy.

7) Set expectations and maintain open communication throughout the project. A good contractor will be transparent and keep you updated. They will address any issues as they arise.
